Gilead man charged after shotgun incident

By ALISON ALOISIO

A local man was charged with reckless conduct with a firearm early Sunday morning after he allegedly shot at another man's vehicle.

Michael Taylor of Mason Township was charged by state police.

At about 9:30 p.m. Saturday, Bethel police officers T.J. Reese and Lt. S.R. White responded to a Flat Road residence for a report of shots fired.

A man at that location said that Taylor had shot at him, according to White.

The complainant was described in the BPD incident report as being out of control, "yelling and screaming."

The officers found evidence of a shotgun blast on the driver's side of the man's vehicle, White said.

The man then said he was going to deal with the situation himself, according to White.

He "sped out of his driveway, almost crashing his car," and headed toward a trailer in Gilead where he believed Taylor was, according to the incident report. The Bethel officers and a state trooper followed.

The officers took the complainant into custody near the intersection of the Bog Road and the West Bethel Road, White said.

After another trooper and a sheriff's deputy arrived, the officers surrounded the trailer where Taylor was believed to be, White said. All three occupants of the trailer were then taken into custody, he said.

Route 2 was closed for a time during the incident. The Bethel Fire Department was called to assist with the closure, said White.

State holds off on charge against Bethel developer

By MICHAEL DANIELS

In a document filed in Oxford County Superior Court, Bethel developer Rick Savage, 42, has agreed to have no contact with Town Manager Scott Cole, except during public meetings, for a period of one year.

In return the state has agreed not to prosecute Savage on a charge of disorderly conduct, stemming from an incident in Cole's office on Feb. 9.

If no other criminal charges are filed against Savage during the one-year period the state has agreed to dismiss the charge without prejudice.

Bethel Police Chief Alan Carr described the incident in Cole's office as "a shouting match, and it turned into something where the town manager was in fear."

According to a criminal complaint filed by Bethel Officer John Taylor, who summoned Savage following the confrontation, "Rick A. Savage did knowingly accost, insult, taunt or challenge Scott G. Cole with offensive, derisive or annoying words or by gestures or other physical conduct which would in fact have a direct tendency to cause a violent response by an ordinary person in the situation of the person accosted, insulted, taunted, or challenged."

G'wood board leaves door open on casino plan

By MICHAEL DANIELS

As bets go, it's definitely a long shot, but with no town chips on the table Greenwood selectmen are happy to let it ride.

At their last meeting, the selectmen told a Rumford lawyer they would "keep an open mind" regarding his proposal to develop a casino in Oxford County, perhaps even in their own town.

Seth Carey told the board that Evergreen Mountain Resort & Casino, a company he formed, is currently gathering signatures to place an article on warrant for the state's 2008 November balloting.

The article would allow for the establishment of a casino in Oxford County.

Under current Maine law casinos are not allowed in the state.

The law does allow for a single "racino" (a combined race-track and slot-machine operation), and one racino has been in operation in Bangor for more than a year.

County.

The promise of jobs Supporters of increased gambling argue the state badly needs the economic boost they say gambling will provide.

And, they say, that is particularly true in underdeveloped areas such as Oxford County, which last year had the lowest per capita income of any county in Maine.

Carey told the Greenwood selectmen a 200- to 300-room resort casino such as the one being promoted by EMRC could provide as many as 1,000 jobs.

Tourism industry upbeat despite high gas prices

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Maine's tourism industry is largely optimistic about the summer season that kicked off last weekend despite high gas prices.

Greg Dugal of the Maine Innkeepers Association said gas prices are on people's minds, but he said that factor alone is unlikely to prompt many cancellations. So far, advance bookings appear to be strong for the peak season, officials said.

"I think that people with plans in place do not cancel because of gas prices," Dugal said. "But I don't dispute that the price of gas is weighing heavily on our minds."

Memorial Day weekend travelers found gas prices nationwide averaging $3.23 a gallon for self-serve regular, according to AAA. That's up 36 cents from a month ago. In Maine, the average price for regular was $3.12, according to AAA.

An AP-Ipsos poll showed that nearly half the country says gas prices are causing a "serious hardship," but fewer people than last year are reducing their driving, trimming other expenses or curtailing vacation plans due to higher energy costs.

Nonetheless, rising gas prices are still having a significant effect on spending, according to Charles Colgan, a University of Southern Maine economist.

"At $3, it's enough to make people rethink," Colgan said. "It

HOW LOW CAN YOU GO?

To the Editor:

Last fall after our garden work was completed, my husband went down into our small woodlot to cut firewood. He would cut a tree or two, limb them out and then hook the chain on to the logs and pull them out, one by one, with our old cut-down.

He worked, cutting and yarding, until he felt he had enough trees to make a year's wood supply.

He then took his powersaw, cut them to stove length. Then, of course, they had to be pulled to stay for the winter. This took him about two weeks or so, working a few hours a day.

We drove down by the road last Saturday, and he applied the brakes. "I didn't see my wood down there." We turned, went down the "dump road" and sure enough some dirty, rotten b----- had taken every stick. Needless to say, we were both furious! A lot of work gone down the drain.

But after a bit we calmed down — no problem. He can go back and cut some more, after all he is only 83 years old.

I hope your fire burns as hot as you would find down below.

AND THEN WE'LL BAN ...

To the Editor:

ANG MISHAPS: Great idea! Ban those dangerous guardsmen from Maine so they can't start any more fires. Next, Mr. Lyon (Letters, May 24) should "Google" for wild fires caused by careless smokers, hikers, campers, hunters, loggers and fishermen, so he and [State Rep.] Tim Carter can get them banned from the Maine woods also. Then we can all enjoy the solitude of the north woods from the quiet and safety of I-95 and US Route 1 with the rest of the tourists!

Casino

Skiers, Mainers targeted
Skiers headed north to Sunday River and Maine gamblers who now head south to Connecticut would make up the bulk of the casino's target market, Carey told the selectmen.

Maine residents last year made 271,000 trips to Foxwoods and Mohegan Sun casinos in Connecticut, according to a study by the University of Massachusetts-Dartmouth Center for Policy Analysis.

Once there, Carey told the selectmen, the Maine gamblers dropped $32 million.

Selectman Fred Henderson liked the idea of diverting some of that cash outflow to Greenwood.

"We ought to get some of that money that's going to Connecticut," Henderson said.

Also eyed by EMRC are the pockets of skiers traveling here from the south.

Carey told the Greenwood board that he has not yet identified any potential casino sites, but "all the people going to Sunday River are going right through this area."

"Location is a huge thing," he told the selectmen. "There's no town that [a casino] really couldn't be in, but some towns are better located than others."

Old tire dump trumped?
Henderson raised the possibility of using a 34-acre parcel of town-owned land on the Rabbit Road, off Vernon Street.

The land, site of the former Gordon tire dump, was acquired by the town for back taxes in the mid 1990s, after the state closed the tire dump and removed nearly two million used tires.

Since then town selectmen and others have floated various proposals for the land, none of which has gained any traction.

Carey, however, said he would be happy to consider the site, and would like to visit it.

When asked later by The Citizen if land owned by a municipality would be any more attractive to EMRC than privately owned land, Carey initially said it would not; but he then added: "If you put them beside each other, the town-owned land would be more attractive because it shows it's the will of the people, which is obviously very important to us."

Informed that the state has placed a lien of nearly $800,000 on the property, to cover the cost of the clean-up, Carey replied: "I was not aware of that. ... They didn't tell me that."

"That's a little expensive," he said, but he added there might be ways to "mitigate" the amount of the lien.

'Enormously speculative'

As only one of several gambling proposals seeking approval in a state historically cool to gaming, the Oxford County casino proposal clearly faces long odds.

EMRC's plan is further handicapped by the fact that the organization has no experience owning, developing or running any sort of resort.

It also has no financial backers yet (although Carey argues they would be easy to find if the referendum were approved).

Dennis Bailey, of the statewide anti-gambling group CasinosNO!, has followed the various gambling proposals closely. He doesn't give this one much chance.

"The fact that Seth has no financial backer, and no experience in building and operating resorts, let alone casinos, makes the entire project enormously speculative," Bailey said.

Even if EMRC's proposal makes it to referendum, Bailey predicts it is unlikely to pass.

"Voters have shown that casinos aren't popular in Maine. In 2003 voters rejected the big Sanford casino by close to 70-30 margin. It was voted down in every county in the state. I don't see that Maine voters have changed their view on this," Bailey told The Citizen.

'Open for consideration'
Still, Greenwood selectmen are keeping the door open.

Loretta Mikols, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, summed up their position as follows:

"Mr. Carey had very little information to offer to the board regarding the proposed casino. He came armed with copies of the petition and an artist's rendering of a 300-room post and beam 'resort' style facility. According to Mr. Carey, a specific site for the resort casino has not been identified and the amount of land needed has not been determined. Absent any further details, and in light of the fact that opening a casino has not yet been approved, the Board expressed an interest in keeping the door open for further discussions, should it pass. We briefly discussed the property on Rabbit Road with Mr.

Carey. It is a large parcel of land with limited opportunities for sale, given the questionable condition of the land and substantial liens against it.

"Should the casino pass, and given the fact that this area of western Maine is the broad target location, we will likely incur a significant traffic burden on Route 26 through the Village. If the casino is in a neighboring town, we would have the burden without the benefit of revenue and clearly, that is not in our best interest."

"At this stage of the effort we have left the door open for consideration, but any other discussion or action is premature."

Bingo battle

Carey said he plans to meet with officials of Oxford County's 34 towns to discuss the casino plan.

He is scheduled to make a presentation to the Bethel Board of Selectmen at their regular meeting, on June 18.

His is not the first proposal to develop a gambling operation here. Just over a decade ago, the Passamaquoddy Tribe applied to the Maine Land Use Regulation Commission to develop a high-stakes bingo hall on tribe-owned land in Albany Township.

The proposal met with vehement local opposition, much of it based on fears the tribe would eventually expand the operation into what opponents characterized as "a full-scale casino."

LURC nonetheless approved the bingo hall, but opponents appealed to the Superior Court, which ultimately rejected the plan.

That rejection, however, was based on a narrow legal issue concerning the status of the Albany land as "Indian Territory."

The tribe then appealed to the Maine Supreme Court, which upheld the lower court's verdict.

The tribe quickly responded by having a bill introduced in the Maine Legislature that would make the land in Albany eligible for high-stakes gambling.

That bill passed in the House, despite having come out of the Joint Judiciary Committee with an 11-3 "ought-not-to-pass" recommendation.

It died, however, in the state Senate, in large part because of strenuous opposition from Bethel-area legislators.

ARTIST'S RENDERING of a 300-room Oxford County casino resort, such as that being proposed by Evergreen Mountain Resort & Casino.

Tourists

won't necessarily keep the volume of tourists down, but it will definitely keep spending down."

Colgan explained that tourists are likely to spend less money in restaurants, for example, to make up for the extra cash they're spending on gas.

Another downside, said Dugal, of the Maine

Innkeepers Association, is that gas prices could dissuade people from making last-minute travel plans.

When gas prices spiked after Hurricane Katrina, hotels in Maine did not report cancellations, but they did notice a drop in walk-in traffic. "Those are the people who fill up the hotels at the last minute," Dugal said.

Still, there's one factor that remains more important than gas prices when it comes to a decision to make a last-minute visit to Maine, said Vaughn Stinson, director of the Maine Tourism Association.

"I guarantee you they'll look at the Weather Channel before they start looking at fuel prices," Stinson said.

SAD44 budget praised, questioned

BETHEL—At a public hearing Tuesday, the proposed FY'08 SAD44 budget drew praise from Steve Bies of Woodstock—in the past, often a critic of school budgets—as well as questions from parents who were concerned about the quality of education. The School Board held the increase in the $9.9 million proposed budget to 1.65 percent and, thanks to carryover and a cash reserve investment account, reduced school taxes to district towns for next year. The board also plans to apply other funds from the reserve account over the next year or two to further tax reduction, and to the establishment of a Capital Reserve Fund for capital improvement projects. "I like this budget," said Bies. "I've been here in the past to complain, but I'm not complaining at all." Bies praised the plan to spread out spending from the reserve account over several years. "I like a dedicated capital reserve account. It's a really good use of the money," he said. Bies said his only concern with the budget was that a contingency account of $125,000 approved by the board for next year be used for emergencies only. Supt. Dave Murphy said any use of the funds must be voted on by directors. "This board has been picky about what they spend money on," he said. Several parents expressed concern that the tight budget might affect the quality of the district's curriculum, particularly in Advanced Placement courses at the high school. Murphy said that in some subjects, students will be able to take AP courses through the school's asynchronous transmission mode (ATM) lab, which connects them to classes that are taught at other schools in Maine. He described the budget as "frugal, but meeting the needs" of SAD44 students. The budget will be voted on in a June 12 referendum.

Firefighters north of the border

BANGOR—While others were enjoying the holiday weekend, a team of firefighters from the Maine Forest Service departed Saturday to battle a wildfire in Quebec. The 21-member team will help battle a fire that has destroyed 10,000 acres of woodland approximately 350 miles northwest of Quebec City, said Kent Nelson, fire prevention specialist from the Maine Forest Service. The leader of the team, Todd Weeks, left on a plane from Bangor with a third of the team members, Nelson said. From there, they picked up the remainder of the team in Presque Isle before continuing northward, he said. The crew was sent as part of the agreement between members of the Northeastern Forest Fire Protection Commission. The compact covers the New England states and New Brunswick, Quebec and Nova Scotia in Canada.

BRINGING IT—Telstar High School sophomore Candace Hall and her teammates concluded their regular softball season with a record of 14-1, and Tuesday brought home the Mountain Valley Conference Championship. Hall has pitched three no-hitters. The Rebels start Western Class C playoff action next week.

about 10 outdoor practices. A series of bomb threats at the school cancelled some practices and postponed games.

To make up for those disruptions, the squad played four games a week for the past two weeks.

The games, they said, have been their practices. But the Lady Rebels have taken it all in stride.

Their offense started a little slowly, but defense has been solid from the beginning.

Hall's three no-hitters and multiple one- and two-hitters haven't hurt, either.

"We've meshed really well this year," said Hall.

Whitney Mills and Julia Stambolis said the focus on team is the key.

If someone comes up short on a play, "we don't point fingers," Mills said. "We're all just looking to play better."

Coach Jim Lunney is not surprised by the team's success, either.

After the state championship last year, someone mentioned to him that 2007 would likely be a rebuilding year.

"We're not going to rebuild," Lunney replied. "We've got players waiting in the wings. We've got good athletes here."

Hutchins summed up the Rebels' sentiments: "We're glad we're proving everyone wrong."

The Rebels start Western Class C playoff action next week.

Baseball in playoffs

The Telstar baseball team, with a regular season record of 7-8, also made the Western Class C playoffs. The Rebels are expected to play in a preliminary game on Monday or Tuesday.

Gould

spent several seasons in the dance program, as well as acting in a number of drama productions and singing with the chorus and chamber singers.

She will attend the University of California at Los Angeles in the fall.

Mike Lowell, son of Bret Lowell of McLean, Va., and Holly Ross of Falls Church, Va., has been chosen by his classmates to speak at commencement prior to the awarding of diplomas.

Lowell, a student proctor who has attended Gould for the past two years, is a talented actor who has played lead roles in several drama productions at Gould.

He is also an avid cyclist who can often be seen riding or working on his road bike or one of the bikes he has salvaged and rehabilitated.

He will attend Bennington College in the fall.

Baccalaureate Friday
On Friday afternoon, the Rev. Rickeman will deliver the invocation at Gould's traditional baccalaureate ceremonies at the West Parish Congregational Church.

The graduating class has chosen classmate Rebecca Rowe and science teacher Peter Hedden to address them.

Rowe is the daughter of Renee Quimby and Robert Rowe of Tampa, Fla.

She is a head proctor, a member of the National Honor Society, and she has attended Gould for four years.

She has been active as a peer tutor in the math center for three years, and has also volunteered with the Rug Rats ski instruction program.

For her Junior Four Point project, Rowe arranged a chemistry internship with Burt's Bees.

She will attend Hamilton College in the fall.

Hedden has worked at Gould for three years as a science teacher, golf coach, advisor, co-leader of the Spring Farm and Forest program, and dorm parent in Gehring

Hall.

Prior to working at Gould he taught middle school science at Telstar, and as a freshman physics teacher at Gould he has had the opportunity to work with many students whom he first taught at Telstar.

Known as one of the preeminent telemark skiers in New England and an avid outdoorsman, Hedden is a perennial leader on orientation and Junior Four Point camping trips and he often leads students on weekend excursions into the mountains.

On Friday evening, the Gould Academy music department, under the direction of James McLaughlin III and E. Scot Fuller, will present its annual spring concert in Bingham Auditorium.

The concert, which begins at 7:30 p.m., will feature both instrumental and vocal selections. It is open to the public and there is no charge for admission.

Burnham is known for her willingness to help out wherever needed and provide bank customers with the highest level of support and attention. ## The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard
Sharon Bouchard's column is published by special arrangement with the Advertising Department

After a long, hard winter I'm happy to say that I'm on the yard sale trail again. Happy trails to me. Just like devoted golfers and runners, it doesn't matter what the weather is, I'm out there.

There isn't anything particular that I'm looking for except some depression glass, but looking for something particular is totally beside the point. The point is finding the bargains and when necessary dickering over the price.

I know that there are people who are on a mission seeking that one special thing to add to their collection. They're easy to pick out because they pull up to the sale, do a very quick scan of the items and unless they spot that one special thing they get right back in their cars and take off.

And there are always the dealers and eBay sellers looking to find profitable treasures. You can spot them a mile away. They have a very serious look on their faces and spend a lot of time looking for makers' marks or dates on items that look old or collectible. They completely ignore the "Tater Twisters" and unused "Chia Pets" even though they may be tagged with give-away prices.

But, the majority of people you will find going from sale to sale and yard to yard on Saturday mornings are the "Pick 'n Paw" yard sellers. That's where I fit in.

The people having the sales love to see us coming. We will take our time and look over just about everything and we rarely leave a sale without buying something.

And, oh the things I have bought. I do find an item every now and then that I sell on eBay for a decent return, but that's a bonus when it happens. For the most part

I'm just buying things I think will have some useful purpose in my life.

I have amassed quite a collection of salad bowls and vases that I never use. I have a real weakness for books and rarely walk away without buying at least one that I'll probably never get around to reading.

Just about every sale I have ever been to has at least one Christmas related item that I just can't live without, but seldom use.

Most of it however, will end up in my cupboards and closets waiting for the day it will be of use.

It's really hard for me to pass up so much stuff that sells for $1.00 or less. My house is full of stuff with 25 and 50-cent stickers still stuck on them. I have more glasses and mugs in my cupboard than I have room for, but for only 10 cents, you just can't walk away from them.

Every now and then I decide that I have to clean some of the stuff out. After all, there is a limit of how much junk one can accumulate. I will very carefully go over everything and decide what I can part with. Considering the fact that I have not used or read most of the stuff I have bought in the past year, parting with it shouldn't be a problem, but I usually agonize over just about everything.

Once I've managed to let go of all the useless stuff I have a yard sale of my own. Yard sales are really a lot of work and most of the time, at least for me, not very profitable.

But, I can always hope.

One reason for the low profit is that my daughter and daughter-in-law are seeing some things that they didn't know I had and they just have to have them. I'm certainly not going to charge my family so there goes any profit on about half of my stuff.

Whatever doesn't go to my kids or doesn't sell, I end up donating to a church rummage sale.

Then during the cold winter months when I'm hankering for a good deal, I go to the rummage sale and end up buying all kinds of stuff, very often including my own junk that I donated in the first place.

Last winter I bought a couple of items I thought were great only to discover that my daughter had gotten them from my yard sale the previous summer.

And so it goes on like this years after year. I hit the yard sale trail and come home with all kinds of goodies. Some of it I will sell on eBay, some of it I will sell in my own yard sale, some of it I will donate to the church and buy it back again. Most of it however, will end up in my cupboards and closets waiting for the day it will be of use.

I've made some good deals and certainly more than my share of bad ones, but I've had a lot of fun doing it. This upcoming Saturday, rain or shine, you'll find me out there "Picking 'n Pawing" my way through other people's stuff. And the way I see it, this just might be the week I come across something worthy of Antiques Road Show or at least good enough for the church rummage sale. You never know when you'll come across an unused Chia Pet.

Sunday, May 27

At 1:55 a.m. Officer T.J. Reese responded to Elm Street for a report of an assault. The complainant, who appeared to be intoxicated, said two subjects had pushed him down and punched him in the face. The complainant did not have any marks on his face. He requested the officer talk to the subjects at their lodging place, which he did. The officer warned them to stay away from the complainant. The subjects said the complainant and his friends had been yelling at them as they were walking in the village, and there had been no assault.

Saturday, May 26

At 4:40 a.m. Officer Travis Fillmore assisted Bethel Rescue with a medical call on the North Road.

At 4:40 p.m. Officer Rusty Daley and Lt. S.R. White responded to the Walkers Mills Road for a report of a vehicle all over the road. The officers located it and after a short pursuit stopped it on Main Street. The driver was found to have low blood sugar and was treated by Bethel Rescue. The vehicle registration was found to be suspended. Kathy Elliot, 51, of Paris was given a summons for operating an unregistered motor vehicle.

At 10 p.m. Officer T.J. Reese responded to Route 232 for a report of a fight that had taken place about an hour and a half earlier. The complainant said one of the subjects had come into her house with blood on her face. Tri-Town Rescue was called, but on arrival the subject had fled into the woods.

Friday, May 25

At 9:05 p.m. Officer Travis Fillmore responded to a single vehicle rollover accident on Fairway Drive. Anthony S. Antonucci, 23, of Vidor, Texas, was arrested for OUI and driving to endanger.

Thursday, May 24

At 11:35 p.m. on Route 232 Officers Scott Landis and T.J. Reese assisted state police with an arrest warrant.

Wednesday, May 23

At 7:10 p.m. Officer Jack Taylor responded to Route 5 for a single-vehicle accident. The vehicle was upside down in the ditch. The driver, who had minor injuries, was taken to the hospital by Bethel Rescue.

FOLLOWING UP

Charge was a result of paperwork error—An incident reported in last week's Police Log indicated that Danna Wilson of Greenwood was charged with operating with a suspended registration. It was later determined by police and Rumford District Court that Wilson's family had registered the vehicle. Because of a clerical error, the Secretary of State's office did not receive that information and issued a notification that the vehicle was not registered. According to a court document, no charge will be brought against Wilson.

Mayville news

By Donald G. Bennett
Honoring veterans never had a stronger supporter than Abial Chandler, Jr. His burial site at Riverside Cemetery is one of the most prominent veteran monuments near the damaged part of the river bank. Chandler and Harlan P. Brown were Gould classmates in 1857. Chandler wrote that H.P. Brown of Bethel served in the 7th Maine Regiment, Company I; he was killed at Antietam, Sept. 17, 1862. He fell while leading his regiment. Chandler was present and helped to bury him, near where he fell with a bullet through his head. Brown Post, G.A.R. (the Bethel veterans organization preceding the American Legion) is named after this noble and brave soldier. The Chandler monument is only one of the many historic markers of Bethel's men who were called to arms in the conflict known in Maine as the War of Rebellion.

David and Nancy Murphy and daughter Erin were in Annapolis last week to attend son Bill's graduation from the United States Naval Academy with a B.S. degree in Aerospace Engineering. Bill was one of 14 Bowman Scholars in his class and he has been selected to attend the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, Calif., where he will enter a master's degree program in mechanical engineering; after that off to Nuclear Propulsion school prior to a fleet assignment as a Nuclear Submarine officer.

Erin Murphy will graduate from Gould Academy on June 2; she has been accepted into the honors B.A. program at Queen's University in Ontario. The 100 or so freshmen in the honors program will spend their entire first year studying at the Herstonceux Castle in East Sussex, England. Needless to say all this has put the Murphy family into high gear.

Kathy and I both put some time in at the 28th Faye Taylor Art Show at the Bethel Historical Society this weekend. This show features and is intended to encourage art by SAD44 elementary school students. Old Times on the Androscoggin River was this year's theme. The three outstanding artists we saw were Regan Kauf, Grade 2 at Crescent Park with an excellent log driving on the river scene complete with a cant dog, Katie Merrill from Andover covered a complete river scene with a sign proclaiming ferry rides for 25 cents and a layout of Merrill's Black Smith Shop; Hunter Gray also from Andover came through with what we thought was the most dramatic painting of the show — some of the strongest sun and clouds ever seen plus a mean looking Holstein cow and logging action on the river. Faye Taylor would have loved it. She was my baby sitter in my childhood days; she also sent me notes including her artwork in the form of chipmunks, birds and rabbits as part of the note. Faye and my aunt, Thelma Bennett Knight, roomed in the same apartment building on Newberry Street in Boston after graduating from Gould Academy — high times after escaping from Bethel.

Frost on Monday, May 21, and hopefully it will be our last one for this spring. Checking on Bethel temperatures over the last four winter periods shows this for the 120 days between Jan. 1 and May 1: These were the average daily mean temperatures — 2007 was the coldest at 28.1 degrees; 2006 was the warmest at 33.7; 2005 was 29.5; and 2004 was 29.8 degrees. So this year's winter temperatures were 16 percent below the 2006 temperatures. But, a warm turn-around in less than five days — Friday morning at 7:30 a.m. temperature was 72 degrees.

Sunday River Farm (David McCrum) harrowed and seeded our field this last week. Frito-Lay will have plenty of fresh spuds come next fall.

Just beyond the hedgerow dividing us from the now or formerly Thurston's field, Peter Haines was sowing corn for the Middle Intervale Farm. He and Alan Fleet had spent most of the day Sunday and the evening harrowing the field.

Gloria Wilson has put her property up for sale. Kennett Realty is the agent. Whoever buys the place will be getting a world-class garage and a house built by one of the area's finest homebuilders of the 1920s and '30s.

Miracle on Mayville Road — Sunday Irving's gas price dropped a nickel to $3.07.

Detour for global aging. One of the century plus years old river maples has split and fallen across the river walk trail maintained by the River View Resort. It is a huge roadblock. Ironically, last year the River View relocated its canoe and kayak launch site due to its being constantly knocked out by river floods. And the solution is — now a detour path around the tree — already done.

Rooster's Roadhouse is off to a fast start on the season. The Shriners just had their second dinner there. They are very welcome at Rooster's because the organization has given Gary's niece two hip replacements with the costs picked up by the Shriners Hospital in Boston. Jon Young of Construction Caterers has been putting up a new fence, painting and adding new outside lighting. On Memorial Day weekend they hosted the Andover Alumni Banquet for a roast turkey dinner. Lobster specials will return when the price gets a little lower than the $17 a pound, which it had reached. But Gary's special Choice Prime Rib and Wild Alaskan Salmon ought to fill the gap. The "older generation," Ben and Fran, is back from Florida to look after the landscaping and outside in general.

Photos this week at Recent Photos in thebetheljournals.info are Riverside Cemetery scenes of fluttering flags at graves of veterans, the Chandler monument, planting corn and a fallen giant maple. To let me know of your news — 824-2094 or e-mail at Donald@thebetheljournals.info.

Gilead

by Lin Chapman

I do believe that the full moon has a strange effect on people. Not only people, but birds also. This month is blessed with two full moons.

The Baltimore orioles are still stopping by several times each day to feast on the oranges and grapefruits that are out there for them.

There are two males that fight when they show up at the same time. They make quite a racket, jump at each other and fly straight up in the air. The chipmunk is in awe of the sight and the blue jays are putting on their flak jackets for protection. I think they might have a good idea there. Right, Howard!

The newest birds that we have noticed are a couple of catbirds. They are quite vocal as they move in and out of the bushes by the feeder. We still have the two indigo buntings that have been showing up, and recently we noticed a third one that has not quite got all his pretty blue color yet.

Hugh is doing quite well recovering from his back operation and would like to pass on a big thank you to everyone who had inquired about him.

My brother, Steve McLain, stopped by over the weekend and went to the cemetery to help me plant flowers for Memorial Day. His son, Brad, hauled fertilizer for the garden this past weekend. Steve also reports that he has a robin that has built a nest in his entryway. The bird does not seem to mind when he goes out with the two dogs, Laney and Spot.

There was another sighting in our front yard in Gilead on Saturday. Bob and Joanne Stewart arrived to drop off items for the yard sale that will be held at the Friends and Family Day on June 23. While we were visiting, they got to see all the feathered friends that appear to us at the feeder.

The orioles showed up for their oranges, several hummingbirds arrived and dived at us and the rose-breasted grosbeak stopped by for seeds.

Ginger Kelly of Mahoosuc Land Trust sent me an e-mail and asked that I put the following item in the column: A meeting to update the community on the Haystack Notch Project and information about

This is a reminder that the regular meeting of the Planning Board will be on June 5 at 7 p.m. at the Town Hall.

Gilead Historical Society
Items are arriving for the Yard Sale to be held on the Friends and Family Day on June 23. Besides the Stewarts' donations, the Bethel Historical Society passed on some of the items they had left over from their sale over the Memorial Day weekend.

Andover

by Melinda Averill

Hello readers. What a busy weekend in Andover, with Alumni Banquet and the Memorial holiday. It seemed nice to have nice weather for a long weekend.

Happy birthday this week to Jodi Putnam on Saturday, June 2, and Carl Cuff on the 3rd.

Peggy Madigan spent four days last weekend in Lafayette, Ind., visiting with her daughter and son-in-law, Suzanne and Bryan. She flew out with two of her friends from Massachusetts. While there they attended a baby shower for Suzann.

Next Sunday, June 10, is Bridgett's School of Dance recital. (My daughter, Sarah, dances for Miss Bridgett!) Show time is 2 p.m. at Gould Academy.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Otis Morton Sr., who passed away at his home on May 23rd. Otis was a very well-known and liked man around Andover. I think that there are many, many Otis stories that will be told for some time. He is survived by his wife, Carol. Other survivors include four sons, Otis Morton Jr. and his wife Dawn of Andover, Ken Morton and his wife Joan of Andover, Eric Morton and his wife Vickie of Rumford Point, and Charles Morton of Andover.

FIRE ATTACK SCHOOL HELD HERE—Eighty-three students from all over Maine took part in the recent Western Maine Fire Attack School, held at The Bethel Inn. Towns as far away as Rangeley, Northport, Ellsworth, and as close as Bethel, Greenwood, and Rumford sent firefighters. Training classes took place at the Bethel Conference Center, with practical drills at BIG Adventure, Telstar High School, the Bethel Fire Station and in Albany Township. Classes offered included National Fire Academy courses: Training Operations for Small Departments and Strategy and Tactics for Initial Company Operations; FFI: Ventilation, Search and Rescue, Water Supply; and other classes in Wildland Powersaws, (taught by the White Mountain National Forest), Emergency Vehicle Operations, included firetrucks and ambulance driving through obstacle courses, Residential RIT (Rapid Intervention Teams), which trained firefighters to save trapped or injured firefighters. Here, Greenwood fire fighter David Goodwin finishes a ventilation drill. The second annual Western Maine Fire Attack School is expected to take place in Bethel again next year. by Lorrie Hoeh

are budded up, and the lady-slippers should be open fully by the end of this week. The painted trillium is out in all its glory, its three startlingly white petals surrounding a red center, so pretty I have to stop and drink it in whenever I see one. The red trillium is also in bloom, showing up all over the place.

We have been hearing both hermit thrushes and wood thrushes in the morning. On my daily forest walk I'm hearing more and more warblers, some of which I can identify as chestnut-sided, black-throated green, black-throated blue, black-and-white, and others. There were a few welcome showers Sunday evening and night, after more than a week of dry, sunny, and sometimes too hot weather.

The sun is out this Memorial Day as folks get ready for the parade, visits to the cemetery, picnics, swimming, and other family activities. We will be hosting the Siegel family: Martha, Kirk, Molly, and Andrew, for a cookout. They hope to move into their new home sometime this weekend, so they will be leaving the Flat Road.

Last Wednesday evening Linda Westleigh had an event at her house for twenty or so people. "The Pampered Chef" demonstrated cooking equipment by preparing a meal for those present. Afterward, of course, the various types of utensils were for sale. Sometimes I think I should have my own sale of cookware and make more room in my cupboards!

The Grange met last Thursday. Theirs is a busy agenda. Preparations are being made to host the County Grange group next month. Moreover, the Senior Citizens will be guests for dinner in June as well. Also on tap for the summer is the Grange flea market, which goes on weekly until fall.

Barb Mahler and Jane Hos-terman worked at the District Exchange on Saturday. All was pretty quiet until a small group of high school students arrived, looking for retro clothing for a school dance that night. Before long the first group was joined by a dozen or more who were there for the same reason. They were looking for "funky," and the funkier, the better.

On Sunday, May 27, Linda and Reg Westleigh celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary at the Town & Country Motel in Gorham. Joining in the celebration were Linda's Aunt Isabel from Lexington, Mass.; Lisa and Paul Pivin, with daughters Andrea and Laura; Jimmy Westleigh and his son, Austin; and neighbors and friends Freda and Lonnie Davis. A lovely time was had by all. My personal best wishes and congratulations go to Linda and Reg on this great milestone. May you celebrate many more!

Don't forget the Bethel Library's plant sale this Saturday from 9 to 10 a.m. Hope to see you there! Call or write with your news: 836-3011; dhoe@megalink.net.

A state trooper was chasing a speeding SUV along Route 2 last Thursday evening when the vehicle pulled to a stop near Gordie Howe's Store. The occupants bolted from the vehicle toward the woods. The trooper rounded up several of them while one was nowhere to be found. That brought out more police, game wardens and tracking dogs. Reportedly the fellow who fled to the woods was running around in the bug-infested area without a shirt. The dogs were able to track the person through backyards, fields and gullies until he crossed the Rumford town line. It is unknown if he was ever found.

The Rumford Point Community Athletic Association has developed a banner/contribution program over the past several years. Any business making a contribution gets a banner hung on the outfield fence. The largest display so far is now in place at the field on Jed Martin Road. For more information about the program contact Jeff Sterling.

Work progresses on the moving of Gardner Roberts Memorial Library. The workers took off the roof last week and the movers are expected this week.

While taking off the library roof the workmen found a burned area and asked about how it may have happened. It was June 9, 1941, when a chimney fire on Primrose Hill got out of control on a very windy day. The house with the chimney fire burned as the fire jumped to William Swan's barn (Penney), Willbrey W. Worcester's house and barn (Bill Worcester), Birchard Russell's house and barn (Souve) and Neri Babin's house and barn (Fortin), all of which burned flat. Many other buildings in the area including the library were on fire and were extinguished by the bucket brigade of volunteers. The woods between the Howard Pond Road and Route 2 burned, as did some abandoned drying sheds along the Androscoggin River. The Rumford Point fire truck lost its engine while trying to save the buildings. Other fire departments came from many surrounding communities.

Jim Ray has arrived at Triple J at Howard Pond. Although he usually drives from Austin, Texas, this time he flew into Portland because of the high price of gas.

There are numerous reports of bear visits since last week's report. Seems that most everyone who has birdfeeders gets a visit; Marie Halacy says she enjoys the visits from her skunk that is almost tame enough to be a pet.

The Hanover Select Board met on May 22 for their monthly meeting. The Board voted to have a complete town revaluation done later this year, because current valuations have slipped below 70 percent of state figures. The Board reported that Hanover had been successful in seeking a grant of over $15,000 that needs to be matched with local funds to develop an updated comprehensive plan. There will be a Special Town Meeting on June 19, at the Town House.

There will be a Public Hearing for the purpose of discussing a revised Hanover Flood Plain Ordinance at the Town Office at 6:30 p.m. on June 6. The ordinance will be voted on during the June 19, Special Town Meeting.

does some excellent, beautiful cross-stitch and her house is very neat. Moreover, if you are privileged to visit with her, you can view some very nice works of art in the form of cross-stitch she has created over the years. Thank you for a wonderful visit.

On Friday morning I had to go to the Tri-Town Rescue barn for a delivery. We invested in a new copier that scans, faxes, and serves as a printer. In addition, a new computer was added and all set up. Many thanks go to Gerry Nelson and his crew at Portland Computer Copy. Then on Saturday was a delivery of new beds for the crew quarters. If the duty crew is lucky enough not to have an emergency run, we hope they appreciate the new twin beds.

Sayward and Cynthia Lamb, Milt and Eleanor Inman went to Kearsage, N.H., for Lena Dean's burial on Tuesday. They returned home via Hurricane Mountain Road and decorated the Andrews' graves, ancestors of Milt, in Chandler Cemetery, North Chatham, N.H. Then they just had to enjoy a picnic lunch at Basin Pond.

Caili and Ani Inman, granddaughters of Milt and Eleanor Inman, have been playing field hockey for Crescent Park School. Their grandparents go to the Sunday afternoon games at Oxford Hills Jr. High in South Paris, where there are nine teams of girls participating. It is exciting! Also, Aunt Marion has attended the games and is very interested and excited too.

We have one more round of shopping to do for the booth at West Paris Old Home Days this coming weekend. I'm not sure the basement is going to hold much more and I'm not really looking forward to moving it all to the booth. I'm sure that we will have a good time.

I know that I'm not looking forward to Alumni Banquet without our dear classmate and friend Carmen Hadley. Carmen passed on to a beautiful spot called heaven. And we are all sure of that. However, we will all miss her dearly.

With this Memorial Day weekend, my heart is heavy again in remembrance of so many service members who have given their lives in defense of our great nation. Myself and others get to feeling really sad at this time of year. We remember our friends with brothers and sisters in service who have given all. God Bless!

Joyce Lamb

What beautiful, sunny days we have had this week. The leaves have grown much larger and greener sliding us into summer in a hurry. The large, blue, white and yellow violets are appearing everywhere.

NEW CAT IN WEST PARIS COLUMN—Joyce Lamb, wrote for years in her Citizen column about her cat, Buffy, until his death last year. She recently acquired a new feline, "Muffin," a two-and-one-half-year-old ragdoll cat. Wrote Joyce in a recent column, "My new companion follows me around and likes to be held if I sit down. She softly purrs a lot. She has a soft meow and does do a lot of talking. Her people do a lot of traveling so she was alone most of the time. Daughter Peggy heard about her and assured them that I would give her good care. She came with food, litter box and toys. Her name is Muffin. She is an inside cat but enjoys what is going on outside. A chipmunk was on the front doorstep and she wasn't interested. She may not know she is to catch rodents." Look for more in upcoming columns.

Some I have transplanted from the lawn to the flowerbeds where they belong. The lilies of the valley have spread too and are starting to bloom. My lilacs did bloom in time to decorate Newton's grave as well as the in-laws' graves. The cemetery is mowed and beautifully decorated.

At the West Paris Universalist Church on Sunday, June 3, Greg and Donna Trundy will conduct the service at 9 a.m. The organist is Jim Butke. A coffee hour follows. The new kitchen is finished and is much brighter with the new light floor. New cupboards were added around and above the sink. The old slate sink was incorporated in the new sideboards, for it is much larger and better than the newer types. While cleaning the dish cupboards we sorted the old plates that were nicked and cracked and out they went. One-hundred twenty-five new Correll plates, white with a border of small blue flowers, were purchased and are now washed and ready for the fall chicken pie supper. They should last a long time and hopefully will not nick and crack. The old ones must be nearly a hundred years old!

Ruth Hazelton attended the graduation of her granddaughter, Kelly Vining, at the University of New Hampshire in Dover last week where Kelly received a Ph.D. in biology. Past Presidents Clinton and Bush were speakers. It was a bit showery at times but all had a grand time. Kelly was a graduate of Oxford Hills High School.

Joe and Peggy Perham joined a group of 18 Perhams for a trip to Ireland. The guide was full of information and stories, so the gang had an enjoyable ten days traveling around the country. Richard Grover, also a correspondent for the Bethel Citizen, was a part of the party.

Ten members of the Goodwill Fellowship of the Universalist Church enjoyed their spring outing at The Brewery at the Sunday River restaurant. This was a relaxed sociable time. Most of the meetings are centered around work and raising money for the church.

Beryl Bonney and Helen Farrar drove to Dover-Foxcroft last week to place flowers on the grave of Dorothy Ross. It is an all-day excursion to go there and back in one day.

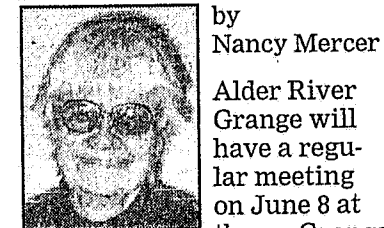

The three Allen sisters, Cynthia Lamb, Ethelyn Turner and I visited our family graves to place flowers at Memorial time as we do each year. We went to West Sumner, Buck-field and West Minot. The cemeteries were mowed and monuments were clean and white. Lunch was enjoyed at Market Square Restaurant.

I finished the day by placing flowers on Newton's grave in West Paris village cemetery and on his mother's and father's graves. I also had red roses for Bertha Pratt, a dear old friend. She has no descendants and no one to tend her grave.

The little gal has made herself right at home with me and is a good companion. If I open the refrigerator door or run the can opener she appears immediately. She did not like a new kind of canned food and would not eat it. She just looked at me and meowed for her supper. I still had her old kind of food so she did get her supper.

Alder River Grange will have a regular meeting on June 8 at the Grange Hall with a 6:30 p.m. potluck supper and the meeting at 7:30 p.m.

Howard and Donna Crockett have moved into their new home.

Millie Jackson enjoyed a Memorial Day picnic with Dan and Leslie McKool and family in Casco. The McKools have moved back to Maine from Virginia.

Geneva Pelletier of Auburn, N.H., visited Paul and Charlotte Kimball and Andre and Flossie Bernier and other family members on May 21-23.

Kane Olson graduated from the University of Connecticut on May 6 with a B.S. in pharmacy. He will be working at Ketner's in Norway this summer before returning to UConn to get his doctorate in pharmacy.

I thought I had lost it early (4:30 a.m.) Friday when I kept hearing a rooster crowing. I dozed off and a little later I heard a rooster crow. Finally I got up and stepped to the window and sure enough a rooster was crowing.

None of us in the neighborhood have heard a rooster for a very long time. Welcome to the farm!

East Bethel appreciates American Legion Post 68 honoring our war dead.

God Bless the Troops.

The Puzzle Mountain Bakery in North Newry is now open.

It is featuring daily made pies. Stop by to see the delectable items and buy a large or medium fruit pie.

Graveside services for Thomas Bartholomew will be held at 10 a.m. on June 9 at Powers Cemetery, Newry.

Last week I drove out to Mountain Greenery to purchase plants to put in a box to take to my parents' gravesite. I told Sally I would be back after the frost that may occur with the Blue Moon this month, in fact this evening. She always has lots to offer in the way of plants and supplies to get your gardens started.

Last week a northern flicker tried to enter the nest of the hairy woodpecker, but this was not allowed and I haven't seen it try again. They used to nest on the property, but I had one of the trees taken down that they used, and the other nature took care of.

On Saturday evening a lunar moth was at the window. It sure is a beautiful harbinger of the weather to come. In the past I have seen many dead lunar moths lying underneath the bug lights that people have in their yards. Not a very pleasant sight for people who are nature preservers.

Thank you, Jim Mason, for your lectures at the library last week. Mr. Mason has antlers that he has made into useful items for the home.

Well, saw quite a few people from the area up to the new Super Wal-Mart in Gorham, N.H. It was a grand opening, plus with the rain it was a good place to be.

Hopefully, the sun will be out soon so we can get outside in the yard. The local greenhouses are open and ready for the summer sales of flowers, soil, vegetable plants, etc. I saw that after the next full moon we will not have to worry about frost.

I have been buying my greeting cards 2 for $1 at the Maine Line in Locke Mills; thank goodness, with the price of stamps going to 41 cents. Mrs. Gaudreau (Mary Jane), Tom's mother, works there on weekends.

Cindy Bobbi was looking around in Bethel and said hi. She is well and good sense of humor as usual.

Historical Society

The Historical Society Museum is a historical and cultural center for the area as well as a representative New England museum. They have a fine collection of furniture; a wide spectrum of styles are represented. The Historical Society collects all it can on historical subjects. People trust them for such information and they take the responsibility seriously. Curator Larry Billings has donated three prints to the museum. The Historical Society hopes new people will join and help ensure the organization's future. Money and members are key components to every group's success.

The Historical Society Museum will open June 2 from 1 to 4 p.m. There will be a special exhibit; come see what it is. It will be open every Saturday until September.

Mason

by Richard Grover

Last weekend Dan, Nancy and Lydia Grover drove to the University of Massachusetts, Dartmouth, to attend daughter/sister Martha's graduation ceremony. Martha received her master's degree from the College of Fine Arts there, where she specialized in creating beautiful ceramic and pottery pieces. Martha has received numerous awards and commendations at artistic shows for the displays of her works.

Jeffrey Williams of Mason returned home last Saturday after spending 28 days in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan and northern Minnesota where he spent 16 days fighting forest fires in the Superior National Forest and in northern Michigan. He then spent two weeks studying advanced silviculture (study of trees) at Michigan Technical College in Houghton, Mich. Jeff is a forester with the U.S. Forest Service here in Maine.

Mona and I spent four days camping at Crocker Pond last week, a beautiful spot this time of year. Actually, it was more like four nights, as we spent the days working and "catching up" around home after our recent trip to Ireland. Friday afternoon, Monica asked us to meet Boston as he got off the school bus, as she was busy with a real estate client. We took Boston to Crocker with us until Matt could come and get him after work. There, we fished for a while from my canoe, until Boston got interested in playing with another boy his age — much more fun than fishing with "Grandpa." When Matt arrived, Boston wanted to spend the night, but was bribed with the promise of a "few" marshmallows before he left. He returned from a trip to our camper cupboard with one or more marshmallows in his mouth and three in one hand. Matt asked him how many a "few" was, and Boston answered, "Three or five!" Boston loves marshmallows.

Ireland Trip

Most of our group departed Boston at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, May 5, aboard Aer Lingus flight 132. We landed at Shannon airport at 5:30 a.m. May 6 after a five-hour "red eye special" flight; the five-hour time difference between Ireland and the U.S. east coast accounts for the seeming discrepancy in time. After clearing customs, we met our bus driver and tour leader, Matt Nolan, who loaded our luggage and drove to a nearby bed and breakfast inn to pick up Nancy, Marilyn and Rose, who had flown to Shannon from San Francisco; due to a timing mix-up, these girls were just beginning breakfast when we arrived. Matt suggested we dismount and take a few photos while we waited for them.

As we gawked around, Ray asked Matt, "What kind of tree is that evergreen over there?" Matt's reply, "That's an along-the-roadie! No. I don't know. I'm a bus driver, not an arborist!"

Finally on the bus, Matt announced, "Okay boys and girls, we're on our way. We'll be passing through the town of Ennis on the way to the Cliffs of Moher." We passed through a storybook countryside, full of multiple shades of green, small farms surrounded by stone walls, stone and stucco houses with neatly groomed yards and golden-flowered bushes almost everywhere we looked. Peggy Turner asked Matt what the yellow shrubs were. "Those are gorse, and some of them are blooming at almost any time of the year."

Matt began an almost continuous commentary, pointing out landmarks and items of historical significance, along with little anecdotes, stories and Irish humor. "Ireland is similar in size to your state of Maine; it is about 300 miles north to south and about 200 miles wide, east to west. ... There's the Maid of Erin Statue. .... Those are limestone quarries of Burren. .... They make blackthorn walking sticks from the Borse bushes. Once they cut the thorns off, they make beautiful canes. .... We are now passing through the village of Inagh, location of the home of the witch of Inagh. She was a faith healer and 'medium.' She wanted her house left untouched after she died, and it remained unoccupied for 100 years. A stranger finally bought the house and began fixing it up so he could rent it out; he died before he could finish, and the house has remained untouched since! ... Here lies the body of Dan O'Shay, buried here today; he lived the life O'Riley while O'Riley was away!"

We arrived at the Cliffs of Moher at about 11 a.m. Matt announced, "There's the visitor center through those doors. You'll find a gift shop and snack shop there where you can do your nibbling and grazing for lunch. Follow that pathway to the left to see the Cliffs of Moher. You have an hour and a half; the bus will leave at 1:30."

We stepped off the bus into a light rain and a very stiff breeze off the ocean. The Cliffs of Moher are a spectacular natural wonder; the limestone cliffs rise vertically almost 700 feet from the ocean and continue along the coast for some seven miles. The asphalt pathways climb up the hill to the edge of the cliffs, where cattle and green pastures on the right side of the path contrast sharply with the rugged coast views on the left.

Upon leaving the Cliffs of Moher, we motored southward through more picturesque Irish countryside to the small village of Kilmerr, where we boarded the Kilmer-Talbert ferry for the 20-minute boat ride across the River Shannon. This proved to be a bit bumpy as the cold wind whipped a light rain across the deck as we crossed the choppy gray water. As we resumed our bus trek on the other side of the river, we all began to suffer a "sinking spell" after nearly 36 hours with little sleep; I noticed there were nearly 18 heads nodding off in the bus. We arrived at the city of Killarney and the Killarney Towers Hotel, our home for two nights, at about 2:30 p.m. Matt alerted us to the fact that a lot of people would be in town celebrating tonight because it was a holiday weekend; Monday was to be a "Bank Holiday," similar to a federal holiday in the U.S.

We went into the hotel lobby and found our room keys already laid out on the counter; we were also told our luggage would be delivered to our rooms shortly. After settling in, we had an hour to stroll about the streets and check out some of the many shops nearby. We found the people friendly, the streets narrow, the buildings mostly old and attached one to another. Many of the buildings housed shops on the street level and what appeared to be apartments on the levels above. One building even had a window missing from the second floor apartment and was occupied by pigeons, flying in and out of the missing window. It seems like every second or third building housed a bar or tavern; Ireland has more bars and taverns per acre than any other place I've ever been!

We visited several small "touristy" shops, where we found some small, stuffed animals to take home to our grandkids. One of the animals that attracted me was a fuzzy, funny looking duck that had a noisemaker inside; squeeze it and it emitted a series of irritating quacks, much like a real female duck. I had to have a couple of these for my youngest granddaughters.

At 5:30 we were expected in Doug and Kathy's room for a little Jameson's Irish whiskey or a "tippie" of wine before dinner. Ray likes to enjoy a little tippie every evening before the evening meal. We sat around the room discussing the little oddities we had observed in Ireland so far: those triangular road signs that read, "Give Way" instead of "Yield." The rectangular road signs, "Traffic Calming," meaning "slow down," I think. The narrow highways with no shoulders, barely wide enough for two busses to pass when they meet, if one pulls over so they don't lose a mirror. Traffic driving on the left side of the road, and, of course, the "roundabouts" (traffic circles) which you drive around in a clockwise direction instead of the other way around. We even found the flush handles on the toilets on the right side of the tanks, instead of the left!

I also had a great time playing with my duck. You wouldn't believe the conversations and laughs we shared when I squeezed my duck for those irritating "Quack! Quack! Quacks!" every time someone entered the room. Maybe it was because of the short night we had the night before!

About 10 p.m. the band started playing in the bar just one floor below our second-floor room. By this time a lot of "tipping" had been going on for some time, and the music and voices got louder with every tippie. The walls began to vibrate and continued to do so until after 2 a.m., when the bar closed and the revelers spilled out into the streets for more boisterous conversations. After that, I slept soundly until about 6:30 a.m. when I awoke, unable to sleep any longer.

Waterford

Hard to believe that May is drawing to an end and that some days have been in the nineties and yet we've had frosts. Seems like a typical May. The hot weather came a little too quickly for me, but then it usually does. I am not a hot-weather person.

The birds have been happy with it. The berries are not out for the birds and they are routing the bird feeders, but I guess there is food for all. We try to discourage the squirrels, but they get their share also. I did finally see a yellow-bellied sapsucker, which is a kind of woodpecker. The colors are brilliant. We both spend a lot of time watching the birds.

The other thing we have been spending time on is painting the house. Check it out; it is becoming a beautiful bright yellow. The trim is a lush dark brown. Mark thinks it clashes with the green roof, but I think it blends in well.

Ashley stopped by the other day. She is back from Scotland and sporting a lovely Scottish accent. It was great to see her. She will be back at Wigwam this summer and so will not be around much.

Spent time this a.m. sending healing energy and visualizations to friend Alan. He is in Germany battling pancreatic cancer. He feels he is gaining ground. His positive attitude alone should make those cancer cells leave. That is not a good home for them.

June 2 is still the bottle drive for the ball field. June 14 is the next Waterford-Stoneham-Albany Lions Club meeting. It will be the time when the work for the blood drive will be finalized. All should attend.

Hope everyone is well on their way to having their gardens in. We are off today to buy tomato, broccoli and kale plants as we didn't get them started from seed. Dave has been hard at work getting the rest of the garden in. Friend Howie was up and helped with the final rototilling and putting the seeds in the soil. I figure even if we get another frost, the plants won't be up enough to be bothered. I look forward to fresh veggies. I know we'll have lots to give away.

That is all for this week. Have a great week and stay cool.

From Bethel Library

The Bethel Library's annual Plant Sale is set for Saturday morning, June 2, from 9 to 10. A brief, but financially helpful event, the sale allows area gardeners to share their bounties and gain plants from the gardens of others. Plant donations are welcome and may be dropped off at the library's handicapped access ramp up to an hour before the sale begins. Needless to say, they should be weed free, pest free and healthy. Please tag all donations. Tags can be picked up at the library. For more information, please call Librarian Michelle Conroy at 824-2520 (or at home at 824-3275, but not after 9 p.m. please).

The Summer Reading Program for all area students begins on June 18. This is a spirited, fun-filled "competition," the reward of which is a day's outing at Bethel's BIG Adventure Center. This program attracts the participation of nearly a hundred young readers from pre-school through Telstar High School.

The library is now accepting hardcover and paperback books for the Mollycoddle Day sale in July. To ascertain this year's drop-off place, please be in touch with Sandy Dennis at Books N Things (824-0275).

Another very successful yearlong Story Hour for the library's youngest patrons ended on May 14. Jean McGuire and Emily Beers were the readers. They drew rave reviews from parents and their children.

Some especially pleasant news to share: to date, the Annual Fund has received $14,833 from 188 donors (patrons, friends, and area businesses). Grateful thanks to all whose gifts support new acquisitions for the collections, building operations, and staff compensation. The fund also helps replenish the library's Improvement Fund.

"The Feng Shui of Flowers" will be presented by Cecilia Vistica, certified Feng Shui expert, on Saturday, June 2, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Gehring House, 77 Broad Street, Bethel.

Cecilia said accomplished gardeners or someone who just loves being surrounded with greenery in their home can benefit from Feng Shui. This gentle art incorporates ancient ideas to promote beauty, balance and blessings through one's environment. The workshop will cover some basics on flowers, plants and garden designs. In addition, a gardening video with Feng Shui master teachers will discuss and uncover ways of making one's world more beautiful.

Cecilia is certified in Tibetan Feng Shui through China Studies School in California. She enjoys collaborating with others to enhance their lives through this form of intentional interior design.

Down Home Maine Discusses Wind Power and Plum Creek

If you're concerned about wind power generation as an alternative clean, sustainable energy source or believe it's really an intrusion in our pristine wilderness, you won't want to miss the next Down Home Maine presentation on Friday, June 8, from 5:30 to 7 p.m. at Moses Mason House. Two experts on the topic, Catherine M. Carroll, director, Maine Land Use Regulation Commission and Steve Wight, commissioner, Land Use Regulation Committee, will discuss this and other "hot" topics including Plum Creek's newest plan to develop Moosehead Lake and the North Woods. The Bethel Historical Society joins Western Mountains Senior College in cosponsoring this thought-provoking event as a community service.

AFF EDUCATOR OF THE YEAR—Jim Chandler of Bryant Pond has been named "Outstanding Educator of the Year" by the American Forest Federation. The award recognizes exceptional teachers who are committed to environmental education. Chandler has been involved in environmental education for more than 30 years, beginning with his service as Oxford County's Soil and Water Conservation District Manager. He helped third-graders plant Christmas trees, caring for them and pruning them until their senior year when they cut and sold them. He also wrote a manual to help others start Kids For Trees programs. The program involved most children in county schools, and it was duplicated in other schools in the state. He started the Agriculture Education Day at the Oxford County Fair in Norway, which now draws nearly 200 students each year. In 1992, he developed a Forestry Demonstration Trail at the Maine Conservation School. He has been an active board member and two-term president of the Maine Environmental Education Association. In that role, Chandler has helped develop statewide workshops that demonstrate how environmental education can be used throughout the state. He is currently director of the Auburn Land Lab within the Auburn School Department. Chandler received his award in Wichita, Kan., and is also invited to attend a workshop at the World Forestry Center's International Educator's Institute in Portland, Ore., in July.

and campground conditions: Androscoggin Ranger District, (603) 466-2713; Saco Ranger District, (603) 447-2166; Pemigewasset Ranger District, (603) 745-3816.

According to Forest Service staff, visitors can find typical spring conditions when they arrive.

Some areas of the high country still have snow, so backcountry hikers should be prepared for a variety of conditions. Some stream crossings are high and footing may be slick.

Trails are slowly being cleaned for the summer season.

Waterbars may need to be repaired and blowdowns may impede your way. Take your time, be sure your footing is secure, and please report any major blowdown or trail damage to the nearest district office.

Campgrounds are open for the summer. Both first come, first served and reservable sites are available.

More information is available on the White Mountain National Forest website. Remember, these campgrounds are in forested environments and you may experience a visit from a bear if you have unprotected food in your site. Another concern this year is the potential for campers to introduce invasive insects to the area by bringing firewood from home. Campers should purchase their firewood locally.

Because of recent rains some roads are just being opened to traffic.

Forest roads that are open for vehicular traffic are closely monitored as the season approaches. Any late opening is to reduce the potential for erosion.

Forest Supervisor Tom Wagner stressed the need for visitors to be prepared and alert to their surroundings. "We're all ready to get out and enjoy the National Forest. It may have been a while since you were active and you need to make sure your equipment and muscles are ready to go. Take it slow and have a great safe summer kickoff."

The Wellesley Book Award was given to Kelsey Gamble in recognition of exceptional qualities in the areas of academic performance, character, and contributions to extracurricular and/or community life.

Martin "Marty" Donovan and Brittany Rogers received the St. Michaels College Book Award, which recognizes a student or students who "demonstrates a commitment to volunteerism and leadership in their community service and endeavors."

Grace Lee received the first ever Carolyn S. Wollen Award. This award, established by former Headmaster and Mrs. William P. Clough III, will be presented annually to a Gould Academy Sophomore who reveals leadership potential through personal example and engages fully in school life.

Carolyn Wollen personified these qualities as a Gould Academy Trustee from 1985-2007.

Junior Martin "Marty" Donovan received the Edmond J. Vachon Award.

The award was created by Gould Academy in honor of Headmaster Emeritus Edmond J. Vachon. Mr. Vachon joined the Gould faculty in September 1940, became senior master in 1941, associate headmaster in 1954, and headmaster in 1959. He also served on the Gould Board of Trustees from 1961 until his retirement as Headmaster in June of 1967.

The award is given to that member of the junior class who exemplifies outstanding contribution to the school and achievement in the community.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU
HOW APPRAISERS CALCULATE A HOME'S VALUE
Before your mortgage application is approved, the lender will order a professional appraisal of the home to make sure that the agreed-upon price is in line with the current market value of the home.

A professional appraiser arrives at an unbiased opinion of the value by looking at comparable homes in the area that have sold for the contractual price within the last six months. The price of each comparable home is adjusted to reflect the differences between it and the house being appraised. If there are a number of similar properties that have sold recently, the appraiser's job is easier. It is more complicated to arrive at the appraised value if your home is located in a rural area or a diverse neighborhood. If the appraisal comes in lower than the sale price, the Realtor may be able to provide the appraisers with additional information on recent sales that will result in increased valuation of the home.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying or selling real estate, contact Cindy Hiebert at Mahoosuc Realty, 207-824-2771
